REVIEWS

Eric Miller is THE executive coach for me, and I think he can be for you. For the past 20+ years, I've been a successful nonprofit executive leading and managing organizations, developing and implementing strategic plans, collaborating with boards of directors and other colleagues, and raising needed funds. Recently, I encountered new and stressful on-the-job challenges; it was abundantly clear I needed help understanding, addressing, and transcending these issues. Eric Miller is the solution. His executive coaching, particularly his Recalibrate program, is what I need and want: supportive, state-of-the-art, revitalizing, thought-provoking, and informative. Eric offers strategic, structured exercises tailored for me, and combines regular check-ins. With his coaching, I am developing a new outlook, useful tools, and a vision for my professional future. Needless to say, I wholeheartedly recommend Eric Miller as a coach.

—Dave E,

I have been a corporate attorney for 22 years. My profession has changed dramatically in the last decade. Before I started working with Eric, I was not clear as to the direction that I wanted to take my practice. With the increase of two new associates and a new partner, we were experiencing growing pains. After completing the program with Eric, I now have a whole new outlook on how I interact with my staff, and there has been a dramatic change. We now have a clear business map on how we will grow our business. I would highly recommend Eric Miller.
